Training Centre in Communication (TCC Africa) was honored to work with Knowledge E in hosting the webinar on the 'Influence of University Rankings on African Research Visibility'. One of the impacts of globalization of higher education is the creation and rise of global rankings and its effect on the competitive nature of universities as we know it. The increased use of rankings have influenced universities on the strategic decisions they make in regards to how they use the results to increase their visibility, attract top talent, funding and collaboration.
